

INVENTOR UNDER ACCUSATIONS

Albert Hays, Father of Remarkable Light, in Trouble.

KNOWN IN SALT LAKE

LOCAL MEN BOUGHT HIM OUT AND SHIPPED HIM.

From New York come advices regarding the investigation now being made into the character and antecedents of Albert Hays, who is alleged, travels under half a dozen aliases and is wanted in many different countries. Hays is the man who succeeded three years ago in interesting a number of prominent local business men in his petroleum burner, during the, as stated recently in a special dispatch to the Herald, Hays has been promoting a company in New York to handle a new invention known as the hydrologene engine, certain features of which are believed to be infringing upon exclusive patents held by M. H. Walker, L. H. Barnsworth, W. A. Nelden and E. F. Colburn of Salt Lake and former United States Senator Frank J. Cannon of Ogden.

The local men are protected by a deed of right, the purchase price being $30,000. With Hays' later business ventures or misadventures they are to be in no wise connected.

Accusations Against Hays.

Concerning Hays, his character and operations, the New York Herald says, under date of April 23:

"Investigation by the Herald discloses the astonishing fact that one of the associates of Paul Sheldon, the lawyer-promoter, during the last two years, and one of the promoters of the General Hydrologene Engine company schemes, has been an Australian convict, who as late as 1899 was wanted in Sydney for bigamy and forgery, having escaped from the jail there while awaiting trial.

"This remarkable character is Albert Hays, alias 'Augustus Howard,' alias 'Plunger Hill,' alias 'Plunger Howard,' alias 'Charles Vivian Doyle,' with other aliases of 'Godfrey,' 'Mason' and 'Smith.' His criminal career is well known in San Francisco, Cal., and forms a part of the records of the police department there, where he was on one time prominent in racing circles and on the Oakland race track.

"Not only are Hays and his many aliases known to the San Francisco police, but his photograph and record are in the archives of all the police departments throughout Europe and in the rogues' gallery in this city and every prominent city in this country. The Pinkerton agency has this man's photograph and record in each one of its agencies as a thief, forger and swindler.

Knows His Associates' Record.

"During the last four months Sheldon and Hays have been negotiating for the purchase of an engine and the formation of a company with Thomas B. Adams, of the banking and brokerage firm of Henderson, Lindley & Co., at 109 Broadway, in which firm Mr. Adams' partners are Francis W. Henderson, D. A. Lindley, Allen L. Lindley, James A. Janney and Arthur W. Howe. Mr. Allen L. Lindley is the New York Stock Exchange member having bought his seat on October 3, 1902. Mr. Adams told a Herald reporter that in these transactions he personally, and not his partners, is interested in the engine and the formation of the International Crude Oil Engine company.

"Mr. Adams made the admission yesterday that he was aware of Hays' or 'Plunger Hill's' former criminal career, but seemed to believe that all said about Hays had been inspired by enemies. A reporter for the Herald visited Mr. Adams at his office for the second time yesterday and handed him the photograph printed in the Herald this morning, and asked him if he knew whom it was.

"Yes, that's Hays," Mr. Adams replied after glancing at the photograph. "Are you acquainted with his record?"

"Yes, I discussed that months ago," the banker replied. "I have gone into all that matter. All that you know is based on accounts brought about through a man who had transactions with Hays in San Francisco."

"But do you know that this man Hays' photograph, together with his department in this country and in Europe and a part of Pinkerton's record of criminals?"

"Knew Sheldon as a Swindler," "Yes, but then what of that?" Mr. Adams asked. "I am not ashamed to be found interested in what I believe to be one of the greatest wonders in the mechanical world, this engine Hays has invented. I know of a case where a man served his term in Sing Sing prison, but afterward retired himself and became not only an honest and re-business man."

"How did you become interested with Sheldon and Hays and their engine scheme?"

"I've known Sheldon ever since he was a clerk in the law office of Meyers & Ansible, a friend of mine, as Mr. Jesup, got me to go up to the basement at No. 1,255 Broadway, where the Hydrologene engine was exhibiting an engine. Jesup told me of the wonderful possibilities of the engine and said that all that was needed was money to lift it out of the financial mire it was in. Sheldon, William Lockhart, Hays, Augustus Becker and others who were behind the General Hydrologene Engine company were unable to raise sufficient funds.

"Sheldon told me how he had defrauded women and men, and I finally agreed with him and Hays to purchase an interest, form a company and make the thing a success. I feel sorry for those women Sheldon got the money from, and if these articles in the Herald do not thwart my plans I'll get the whole thing on its feet and Sheldon will be able to pay back the women, as I want to see him do. The International Crude Oil Engine company is only tentatively formed now.

Hays Employed on Salary.

"The engine exhibited in the basement at 1,255 Broadway," Mr. Adams continued, "was purchased from the Manhattan Transit company, and to that engine Hays, who is a wonderful inventor, attached his own patented principles. We moved that Hydrologene engine over to Astoria and there we have built our own engine under the personal supervision of Hays, who is still employed at a salary.

"Where does Mr. Hays, or Howard, live?"

"Well, I can't say exactly," Mr. Adams replied hesitatingly. "I think he is now living in the country with his family for the summer."

"Mr. Hays lives at 10 West Ninety-sixth street, or did until yesterday afternoon. Subpoena servers were there searching for him to obtain his presence at the district attorney's office to tell what he knew about Paul Sheldon."

As said that Assistant District Attorney Rand had begun work of examining into the sky rocket career of the missing lawyer-promoter.

Green Says He Lost $100,000.

"Willard R. Green of Denver, Colo., was in San Francisco, Cal., in 1899. He had his attention called to a 'remarkable engine' that was then, as the Hydrologene engine was last summer, being exhibited in a basement. Mr. Green was struck with the remarkable power of the motor and the cheapness with which it was operated. Hays, or 'Augustus Howard,' as the Englishman and patentee was then known, finally got Mr. Green interested to such an extent that he advanced 'Howard,' he says, about $100,000.

"Willard R. Green, who is now in this city and is stopping at the Waldorf-Astoria, when seen by a Herald reporter, said:

"I am surprised that Hays or Howard is in this city. I knew the man in San Francisco, and by both names. I went to see an engine he was exhibiting and advanced him money. I had expert engineers and mechanics examine his motor and they pronounced it a marvelous invention. Through an accident it was found that the motor was a fraud. This discovery was made one day while Howard was away from the place. It was found that oil was being filled into a cylinder by a secret and hidden process, and the oil that we thought was kerosene was a lubricant was a fuel oil, which accounted for the tremendous power of the motor."

Hays' Australian Record.

"On complaint of Mr. Green, Chief of Police Lees sent Hays or Howard's photograph to Sydney to see if the police of that city could identify it. The photograph was identified as that of Joseph Doyle, alias Godfrey, alias Mason, alias Doyle, alias Smith, alias Stms. This was the record sent to Chief of Police Lees:

TWELEFTH HAS BEST MARKSMEN

Gains the Record For the Entire Army.

FORT DOUGLAS SECOND POST

ONLY A FRACTION IN PERCENTAGE BEHIND WINGATE.

The Twelfth Infantry, which was stationed at Fort Douglas during the year 1903, and departed for Manila on Feb. 24, left with a record of being first in the order of the army for rifle, carbine and pistol firing laurels, which every soldier longs for—and secured second place for Fort Douglas as a military post.

According to the circular received from the war department at Washington exhibiting results for the rifle, carbine and pistol firing of the army for the target year 1903, the Twelfth made the best record for regiments of infantry, with a general figure merit of 45.5 per cent. Company C of the regiment established a record of 70.6 per cent for the entire army. Fort Douglas was second on record for target firing as a military post, with an average of 55.5 per cent, while Fort Wingate of New Mexico made the record by the narrow margin of 3 per cent.

The regiment was commanded by Colonel John W. Bush, and contained three expert riflemen, fifty-seven sharpshooters, twenty-one marksmen, 124 first-class, 212 second-class and 304 third-class riflemen. The percentage for rifle ranges from 600 to 1,000-yard ranges was 39.6 for volley fire and 56.1 for fire at will. The individual figure of merit was 45.5 per cent.

The Third Infantry, which won second place, was excellent in both individual and collective firing. This regiment established a record of individual merit at 42 per cent and volley fire 39.6 per cent, and fire at will 44.5 per cent.

Company C contained twenty sharpshooters, one marksman, twenty-two first-class, fourteen second-class, and thirteen third-class riflemen. Three of the regiment, Fred Bjorke, Captain James Clinton and James Blazek, won thirty-seventh, thirty-ninth and fortieth places, respectively, in the individual list of expert riflemen.

ANXIOUS ABOUT HOME

J. M. Shockley, Convicted Murderer, Worried Over Failure to Receive Letter.

J. M. Shockley, who will appear before Judge Charles W. Morse in the criminal division of the district court at 10 o'clock this morning while his attorneys argue for a new trial preparatory to the imposing of the death sentence, is worried because he does not hear from his mother, his wife and his children.

"I am afraid when I do hear from her that it will be bad news," said Shockley yesterday afternoon. "I thought I have written home several times in the past week, I have not had a line in reply. I am fearful lest something has gone wrong. It is unusual for me to go this length of time and not get a reply to my letters."

Shockley insists that he is enjoying the best of health, and he looks it. He declares he is not worrying about the outcome of his case this morning.

"I hope, with my attorneys, for a new trial," he added, "but if we do not get an appeal is to be taken to the supreme court."

Shockley Friendly With Rose.

The double murderer then turned his attention to Frank P. Rose, who was recently executed at the Utah state penitentiary. Shockley and Rose were friends, so to speak, while they were in the county jail together, and the former seldom missed an opportunity to ask about the wife, sister and children of the late prisoner.

"The manner in which Rose met his death seemed more interesting to Shockley than even his own case, or that of the wife, sister and children of the late prisoner. He talked about the executed murderer more yesterday afternoon than he did any of the other subjects brought up all combined.

Shockley's eyes had a far away look in them when told how Rose met his death without the least hesitation. ## RULES FOR MINERS

Owners of the Hired Girl Group Formulate List For Their Men.

The owners of the Hired Girl group of mines near Frisco are much elated over the proposed construction of the Newhouse road to Copper gulch. It is said the road will enable the owners of the group to drive a tunnel at a greater depth. The group will be on the south side of the mountain from the Newhouse tunnel. The latter is expected to show a continuous vein through Imperial ground to the Cactus mine.

The owners of the Hired Girl group have formulated the following rules:

"Experienced miners given precedence. Also engineers and machinists.

"No rushing the can or bottle to blacksmith shop or butcher house.

"No mining done in bunkhouses. No Mormon poker or bluff. One hundred games for a cigarette in stoves or bunkhouse.

"Timekeeper will just mind his books and papers. Employees must not look for favor from him, or rush the growler for him. He is only human.

"Miner will 'mine' the foreman the ore from the waste, he may not save ore from the waste to judge who does his work best. No pretty chaps.

"Foreman will see that boarding house gives more than four ounces to the pound.

"When not sufficient air for candle to burn, quit work.

"Don't leave missed holes.

"Don't burn loose powder to smoke out next shift.

"We expect employees to work eight hours for a shift. The other sixteen hours we have no strings on him.

"Employees will vote for whom they please.

"Buy your drinks where you please. Don't put up a job on the other fellow.

"Foremen or clerks must not interfere with prospectors or their claims. Give them a month's work for a grab stake."
